Dear Colleagues,

It gives me great pleasure to invite you to partner with us for the 2025 National Innovation Policy Forum and Ralph Slatyer Address on Science and Society, to be held in Canberra at the National Press Club on Monday 3 November.

The National Innovation Policy Forum brings together leaders in Australian innovation – those that foster collaboration between publicly funded research and industry through to commercialisation and scale up and from business and research institutions with from the policymakers and parliamentarians.

The Forum will build upon the work of 2022-24, and the program will facilitate a dialogue about creating greater efficiency, collaboration and impact across the innovation system. It will be a timely discussion in light of the developments surrounding the Strategic Examination of Research and Development.

Our partnership opportunities aim to allow you to choose how best to work with us in achieving our mutual goals, and give you an outstanding profile opportunity with some of the most influential leaders of Australia business, research and policy making.

Attendees will be senior representatives from business, research institutions, Industry-research collaborative organisations and government. Furthermore, this forum is a great opportunity for organisations and partners to engage with leaders in industry, research institutions and policy makers and to showcase your commitment to our future prosperity.

Our outstanding speakers are ready to foster important conversations and to facilitate a dialogue with industry, research organisations and policymakers to create greater efficiency, collaboration, and impact across the system.
